North Charleston Center for Advanced Studies Plan

The Charleston County School District (CCSD) Board of Trustees voted 7-2 to approve a plan to build a new facility to house the Charleston County voter-approved North Charleston Center for Advanced Studies (CAS) program on the North Charleston High School campus. The North Charleston CAS will be constructed across the street from the main building of the campus where Attaway-Heinsohn Stadium currently sits. The district is in the process of finding land to build the Charleston County voter-approved District 4 Regional Stadium.

An amendment to the plan states that Garrett will remain a CCSD school; the district will receive input from the community on what school/program will be on that campus site.

The plan is for North Charleston CAS, which will be open to students who attend District 4 high schools, to open for the 2020-2021 school year.
