Charleston, SC - Sanders-Clyde Elementary School scholars have a big reason to be thankful this holiday season; each student received a brand new coat for the holidays! The effort was spearheaded by the school's Parent Advocate, Danielle Daniels.

Daniels sent out a message to their community partners and fellow Charleston County School District schools, and as school leaders described it, "hearts came together to make it happen."

"What a wonderful way to celebrate the holidays!" exclaimed Principal Janice Malone. "The smiles on the faces of our scholars were priceless. This was a true manifestation of what can happen when community partners come together. We wish everyone a wonderful holiday season filled with the joy of giving."

Sanders-Clyde students and staff members want to thank Charleston Ports Authority, International Longshoremen Association (ILA), ILA HealthCheck nurses, Buist Academy, Charles Pinckney Elementary School, Pure Insurance, Citadel Square Baptist Church, Redeemer Lutheran Church, St. Stephens Episcopal Church, Grace City Church, and Rotary Club of Charleston. There were many individuals that gave their time, talent, and treasure to make this happen as well.

For information about this act of generosity, please email Janice Malone at janice_malone@charleston.k12.sc.us.
